New Flag System at Cascade Mill Promotes Safety and Housekeeping

The new and unique flag system at Cascade to promote safety and good housekeeping throughout the plant is attracting many eyes and creating interest among employees. According to J. R. Almand, Manager of the Paper division, the idea is not original as it is already in use at other plants throughout the country. It is an excellent system, however, and should be instrumental in bettering the safety and good housekeeping record at Cascade.

The white flag with the green cross in the center is the safety flag and as long as it is on the staff it denotes a perfect "No Lost Time" accident record for the department. Should a "Lost Time" accident occur in the department, this flag will be replaced with a red flag which will remain on the staff until the end of the period.

FOR THE GIRLS!

BRIGHT FIELD FLOWERS, tiny rosebuds, or any of the other entrancing flowers of summer's bright months may be fashioned into corsages for yourself and your friends, this way: Cut heavy aluminum foil into hearts, ovals, scalloped circles, or many-pointed stars. Make a hole in the center of each, insert a small nosegay and make it snug by pressing the foil around the stems. A delicate but sturdy corsage is the result.

HERE'S A LIGHT on shades — lamp shades, that is — light or dark, to suit the decor of your room and provide a conversation piece. Select attractive landscape or seascape snapshots from your vacation albums. Let your photo dealer enlarge them on special translucent paper made for this purpose. Buy a wire frame for the shade at a department store or home-furnishings shop, and trim the enlarged photographs to fit each panel of the frame. Punch holes near the borders of the prints and lace them to the wire. Be sure the prints overlap and that the lacing goes behind the frame at every crossing.

PERK UP your picnic with bologna-kabobs. For a hearty toast-on-a-stick treat, spread slices of enriched bread with butter or margarine. Alternate four slices of bread, and three slices of bologna (cheese slices, too, if you wish), beginning and ending with a slice of bread. Press your four-decker sandwich firmly and cut in three strips. Then cut each strip in thirds, making nine 1¼-inch cubes in all. Thread three or four cubes on a stick or metal skewer and toast over the coals. Bologna-kabobs are fun to fix, fun to eat, so be sure you make plenty. And if it's a backyard or back-porch picnic you're having, just use metal skewers and toast the kabobs in the oven, turning occasionally until golden on all sides.

mittee inspects the plant for cleanliness and at the end of the four-week period, the department with the highest rating in good housekeeping is awarded the "Good Housekeeping Banner" and retains it on their flagstaff for a four-week period.

By the same token, the department with the lowest "good housekeeping rating" will have the "8-ball" symbol flying from their flagstaff for the four-week period.

The goal at the Cascade plant is — "no red flags." Their purpose in using the new flag system is "a safe and clean plant."
